Abstract

This session consists of two different regional approaches for waste management. One regional approach is to enhance inter-national cooperation and guide the implementation towards sustainable waste and resource management in South Asia. At the first two presentations, we will discuss how the Roadmap can be practically implemented by the member countries and how regional agencies can help them move from the vision to action. The second regional approach is inter-municipal cooperation which has been gradually recognized and implemented by local government as well as private sector. The presentation will include some case studies in South East Asia.
